

IDEAS

I would like to use AR to interact with common “beauty” and makeup items to show hidden chemicals and weird unhealthy ingredients in them such as coal tar. Maybe extend this to other consumables such as food, translating the often latin complicated terms to simple visuals .

Otherwise, if I am already having a breakdown over my BFA show, I would like to do a condensed version of Objects of Vanity where projection would be against a mirror discussing the control and tension of women through the media in regards to their beauty, self image and sexuality using nylons as a medium paralleling the story of Narcissist.

